Master Naturalist class applications due Friday

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE, OCTOBER 14, 2015:

NEW BRAUNFELS — Time is running out to apply to become a Master Naturalist through the Comal County office of the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service.

The Lindheimer chapter of the Texas Master Naturalists opens a monthly class to new members each year, beginning in November. The course consists of field trips, a class project and opportunities to volunteer in many locations and areas of interest, including birding, geology, wildflowers, aquatic life, butterflies, invasive species management, education and paleontology.

Application forms are available on the Lindheimer chapter's website, txmn.org/lindheimer/join-us, and should be emailed before the end of the day Friday, Oct. 16, to LindheimerMN@gmail.com. Course fee is $150, due at orientation on Oct. 28.
