Proclamation

Recognizing Dr. Frederick Frueholz, Jr. as a 2014 Living Legend

WHEREAS, The Braunfels Foundation Trust has named Dr. Frederick Frueholz, Jr. as a "Living Legend of New Braunfels"; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Frederick Frueholz, Jr., was born in New Braunfels on December 12, 1927, into a family of physicians. Emigrating from Germany, Drs. Frederick Frueholz, Sr. and Bertha Frueholz set up their family medical practice in the iconic home on Seguin Street where Dr. Fred resides today. It would be an understatement to say that Dr. Fred, as he is affectionately known, has roots that run deep and wide in the landscape of New Braunfels. Living only a couple of blocks from the Comal River, young Frederick split river time with piano and voice lessons. He attended Carl Schurz Elementary, was a Boy Scout and earned his Eagle Scout with Bronze Palm. At New Braunfels High School, he participated in band and drama. As a junior, he helped organize the Unicorn Stables, a popular weekend activity center in downtown New Braunfels offering food and fun for New Braunfels high school students. He served as the first president of the organization; and

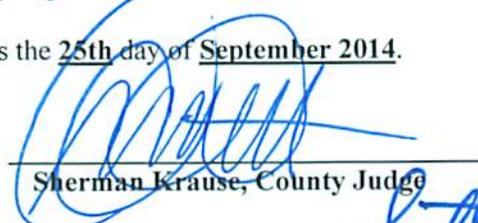

WHEREAS, Dr. Fred graduated from New Braunfels High School in 1945, and went on to study at the University of Texas in Austin. Although architecture was of great interest to him, he received a Bachelor of Science and attended the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston. In medical school, Fred kept his architecture passion alive by designing his fraternity's new house! Although there was never a doubt where the young doctor would hang his shingle, Dr. Fred began an internship at Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio. Dr. Fred was a member of the National Guard and taught in the Medical Corp at Fort Sam Houston. He soon left for a two year commitment in France, served at the Army's 28th General Hospital, returning home as a captain. When the family's growing medical practice required more examining rooms and office space, he designed the new medical office that was built directly behind the family's home. The Frueholz practice treated generations of New Braunfels families, but a knee injury forced Dr. Fred's early retirement in 1987; and

WHEREAS, His service to New Braunfels extends far beyond his medical practice and includes his commitment to First Protestant Church. He sang in the choir in his youth and into adulthood. He served on the Church Council, and on Building Committees, to name a few. In addition to architecture, music has always been important to Dr. Fred. It is not surprising that he served on the board of the Mid-Texas Symphony and organized the Symphony Chorus. He founded and served as the president of the Heritage Chorale, now known as the Community Chorale. He sang with and was a member and president of the Texas Bach Choir. He continued his education over six summers studying architecture and history at Oxford University in England; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Fred's vast knowledge and love of history and New Braunfels resulted in his establishing and organizing the Comal County Historical Commission. He served as the Commission's first chair and continues to serve on its board. To recognize his contributions to historic preservation, the Comal County Historical Commission established and bestowed on Alton Rahe, in 2014, the first Frederick J. Frueholz Jr. Historic Preservation Award. The award honors individuals for their significant dedication to historic preservation. Dr. Fred is a member of the Sophienburg Museum and Archives and the Heritage and Conservation Societies of New Braunfels. He was a member and president of the McKenna Hospital staff, as well as the Comal County Medical Association. He was a Rotarian and a Paul Harris Fellow. Dr. Fred was involved in establishing the New Braunfels National Bank, now Wells Fargo, where he also served as board member.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Commissioners Court of Comal County proclaims Dr. Fred Frueholz, Jr. to be a Living Legend in Comal County.

PASSED AND APPROVED this the 25th day of September 2014.
